The New York Republican State Convention.

SARATOGA, N. Y.—The convention reassembled at 3 P. M. G. W. Curtis permanent chairman with a number of vice presidents and secretaries. The platform declares the government should remain in the hands of those who will sustain the guaranteed by the amendments to the constitution and in pursuance of the past action of the Republican party and its record. The welfare of the country requires good results. The welfare of the country requires a just, generous and forbearing national policy in the Southern states a firm refusal to use the military power except for purposes clearly defined in the constitution and the local enforcement of national authority by those who are in sympathy with such a policy, and will heartily support it demands honesty, economy and efficiency in every branch of the state and national administration prompt investigation of all charges of wrong doing and summary exposure, prevention and punishment of wrong doers, heartily commends the action of all officers, whether state or national in honest efforts for the correction of public abuses and pledges them consistent and faithful support guilty offenders in the management of the canals should be brought to speedy punishment and the executive and the governor, under the powers already conferred on him, should suspend all officers who have violated the law further inflation of the currency under any pretense would be a public calamity the interests of honest industry and common welfare demand the speediest possible return to specie payments the whole circulation should be carefully and wisely revised to the end that its burdens should be equalized in all places recognizing as conclusive the present public declaration that he is not a candidate for renomination, and with sincere gratitude for his patriotic services we declare opposition to the election of any president for a third term the free use of silver is the text-work of the American republic and we, therefore favor the unqualified maintenance of the public school system and its support by equal taxation and we are opposed to all sectarian appropriations and we denounce as a crime against liberty and republican institutions any project for a sectarian division or appropriation of the school fund of the state. The national administration by its steadfast fidelity to its precepts of economical honor and its opposition to unsound financial projects by its calm avoidance of all action without clear power is entitled to confidence and reason rather than fanciful theories in the settlement of disputes the firm vindication of the national dignity and authority rigidly enforcing the laws correcting abuses punishing offenders and enforcing retrenchment without boasting and ostentatious pretension, deserves the confidence of the American people and calls aloud for the service in war of the distinguished soldier and patriot who stands at its head. The following ticket was nominated.—For Secretary of State Fred. W. Seward Comptroller Gen. F. L. Stetson of Monroe Attorney General C. L. Bonford state Engineer O. H. Cornell Canal Commissioner W. F. Findley State Prison Inspector Rev. B. T. Ives. Adjourned sine die.

Pennsylvania Democratic State Convention.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 8.—The convention reassembled at 6 o'clock. The committee on permanent organization reported Hendrick B. Wright chairman who was unanimously elected. He was applauded when he said the Democrats favored hard money but much more, when he asserted slavery in fact or of speech or religion. The committee on platform asked for more time. Convention adjourned till 8 o'clock. It is understood that the committee will declare against the currency plank.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 9.—The convention met at 11 and voted not to proceed to the nomination of governor and treasurer. A motion was made to adjourn till the committee on resolutions had time to agree on a report. The motion was lost. A motion was made to reconsider, when the latter motion was indefinitely postponed. The committee on resolutions are reasoning to come to some agreement but that is to affirm the currency resolutions which are as follows, that the contraction of the money current by withdrawing national bank notes made by the Republican party and the further contraction proposed by it, with a view to force resumption, at specie payments, has already brought distress to the business of the country and threatens general bankruptcy, and, while we express a conviction the principal that sound currency should be gold and silver, or redeemable therein we are opposed to either, conjunction or inflation of the present currency and would leave the restoration of the legal tenders as to gold to the enlightened action of the people, trusting to promoting the industries of the people and not by destroying them, that the policy already initiated by the Republican party, of abolishing legal tenders and giving national banks power to furnish all the currency and increase the power of an already dangerous monopoly and increase the burdens now oppressing the people, without corresponding advantage and that all the national bank system should be permanently retired and full legal tenders be issued in their place, and public interest demands that the government should refuse to discredit its own money and should make legal tenders receivable for all public dues except where respect for the obligation of contracts requires payment in coin the extinction of the present national banks and the establishment of free banks of discount and deposit under such regulations as the states respectively may prescribe, and no paper money except such as may be issued directly by and upon the faith of the federal government, affording practically a currency based on the gold and silver and ready property of the whole people of the country. Pennsylvania Democrats being made to remember the convention to a more positive inflation resolution. At 1 o'clock the convention adjourned til 3 P. M.

That we represent the Democratic and Liberal Reform Republican and Independent electors of Wisconsin in convention assembled, congratulate the people on the progress thus far made in the reduction of state expenditures in vigorous and impartial administration of law, repeal of obnoxious legislation and efficient protection secured to the industrial and productive classes and in the banishment of the baneful spirit of political partyism from official duty, and resolve that we will abide by the principles of political reform adopted by the people at the convention in 1873 that we unalterably adhere to the declaration of principles unanimously agreed on by representatives in the Wisconsin legislature of 1875, that the preservation of the public credit, honest payment of the national debt, right revenue, tariff, state and federal and cheaper transportation, a sound currency, coin or its equivalent, and a tariff for revenue only no quarter for men who vote or apologize for the Credit Mobilier corruptions in congress executive affiliate with men of corrupt practices sovereignty of the federal government its delegated powers sovereignty of the states its reserved powers as to all powers not delegated to the federal government not prohibited to the states are strongly opposed to any attempt by the federal government to usurp powers not constitutional and the interference in matters of purely local concern. ### Senator Alcorn on Governor Ames.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 9.—The Avalanche publishes a letter from Alcorn in which he says in regard to the condition of affairs in Mississippi that while there is great disturbance there and bad blood between the races and parties and bad men were finding employment, fomenting the disturbance, it will continue as long as the people do not learn to follow a conservative course and subdue their passions for the public good. There is a bad state of feeling existing and it only takes two or three desperadoes meet at a gathering to cause the bad feeling to vent itself in blood and violence as at Clinton. The senator was severe on Governor Ames who he states is vindictive and not actuated by any kind feelings toward the people who have been in control. He is entirely in earnest in his charges the Democrats of the state with the responsibility of Ames election as in the recent election they urged that it would be better to elect Ames and make the state a hell first and democratic afterward. He thinks bloody business does not fill felicitously and that the people of the North are no more prepared to receive complacently lectures from Lamar Gordon and Jeff Davis than those of the South would be to hear Phil Sheridan.

There is a possibility it will either fail altogether or be postponed. In this connection it is declared that Gen. Joseph Hawley of Connecticut the president of the board of directors has grown unpopular to an extent so as to exclude him from the presidency of the board of directors has grown unpopular to an extent so as to exclude him also his usefulness as the head of the enterprise and as planning have will result. WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Gov. Ames of Mississippi to-day in full consultation with the various parts of the state beyond the power of the state to suppress and makes a formal application to the president for such aid as may be necessary to restore peace and protect citizens.

Aid for Ames.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—President Grant has telegraphed Adjutant-General Townsend directing him to instruct the officer commanding in Mississippi to give Gov. Ames such aid as may be necessary to maintain order and protect life in that state if the insurrection is too formidable to be suppressed with the forces at the governor's command. Before sending such order to the commanding officer however the president directed the adjutant general to consult with the attorney general as to the legality of such employment of federal troops. Accordingly these gentlemen had a consultation at noon to day and action was deferred till it is decided whether a proclamation should be issued addressed to the insurgents before the president is authorized to use the military. Before attorney general to consider whether such proclamation is needed. The attorney general is making arrangements by telegraph for a conference with Secretary Belknap who is detained by business. No time no long will be taken by the war department until after a proclamation and reception of notice of the disregard of its requirement. The available troops in Mississippi are two companies of cavalry at Vicksburg, five of the 3d and 4 of the 13th at Holly Springs and four of the 13th at Baton Rouge. Official telegrams will probably be sent to Gov. Ames to day asking if it is not possible he can take aid in preserving the peace by calling on law abiding citizens so as to avoid resorting to federal force.

The Treasury Robbery Case.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The preliminary hearing of the case of Theodore A. Brown in connection with the treasury larceny was continued to day. The colored janitor of the police headquarters testified that on the night of January 1st he passed in at the rear Ottman gave him a note addressed to the cashier of the Central National Savings Bank in substance asking the cashier to give the bearer Ottman said to him. If you attempt to betray this trust, I will kill you. He left the note and tear the paper which I saw, I think, for a thousand pieces and I will give you $5 000 and a horse and lot. It would not do to name the name with whom you can have the honor to marry. I think the prisoner put pieces from further testimony on the white sheet but not Ottman's note but instead of doing Ottman's request gave the note to the detectives and it corroborated them to Alexandria where they obtained possession of the box from the bank and brought it to Washington and it was placed in the treasury vaults for safe keeping as a special deposit.

Wolfe put of Briggs & Co's banking house certified that Ottman passed an account with them on the 16th of July. On man's first deposit was $500. Soon after he deposited nearly $6 000 more.

A GREAT EXPERIMENT IN ART.

[From the N. Y. Tribune.]

Dr. Franz Hueffer who contributes to our columns to day a complete and interesting analysis of Wagner's great musical drama the concluding part of which has just issued from the press needs no introduction to American readers. His recent volume on The Music of the Future and his occasional contributions to English periodicals have given him an extensive reputation as one of the ablest writers in our language on the progressive side of the great art controversy, and nowhere perhaps have the principles which he defends met with a readier acceptance than in the United States. New ideas in art take root readily in a virgin soil like ours where there is no great prejudice from the older forms of music, because there has been neither popular knowledge of such matters nor a vigorous musical literature. Within these years however the conditions of musical art in America have greatly changed. Simultaneously with the progress of the new school life fondness of our people for this branch of art has been very rapidly developed and as we have elanced to get our taste for music generally and our familiarity with Wagnerism in particular largely from the same source—the Thomas Orchestra—the popularity which compositions just beginning to be appreciated by older communities have obtained among us is not surprising.

Wagner would doubtless regard it as a strong proof of the correctness of his theories that his works are more quickly understood in the new world than the old. The opera in its ordinary form is a monstrous agglomeration of contradictions as regards the end to be attained which a reasonable criticism cannot reconcile us while the arts has become in too many instances a mere exhibition of skill in which the singer is allowed to commit the greatest absurdities for the sake of vocal display. Wagner tries to bring the musical drama back to nature and common sense. The object of the music is to express feeling to strengthen the effect of the words and action. With him it grows naturally out of the language of the text and the situations of the drama and the three are to be equal parts of one beautiful poem. Hence Wagner's music is neither abstruse nor intellectual nor scientific as ill informed critics sometimes call it on the contrary it is more purely emotional than any other music ever written for the stage it speaks—or is supposed to speak—at once to the popular heart and needs no learning for its comprehension. Hence too wherever it has been fairly heard it has captivated the people long before it has conquered the critics. It did so here and it has done so in London this season in a most remarkable manner.

To day there is no question of art so generally discussed as the chief centers of culture as the theories of Richard Wagner. The eyes of the whole civilized world are fixed upon the little town in Bavaria where he is now rehearsing his great work and preparing for the important experiment of 1876. The Ring of the Nibelung is not intended for an ordinary opera house. It is a mammoth work requiring four nights for its representation and designed only for festival occasions at intervals of a year or two. If it should succeed there we need not look for an immediate engagement of Wotan and Brunhild for the New York Academy of Music. Its success or failure however will have an enormous influence in art and be felt in almost every form of composition so that conservative defenders of the old and enthusiastic disciples of the new may well agree in looking upon it as by far the most important production of musical genius since the symphonies of Beethoven.

The Cause of the Nevada Indian Troubles.

DELL CANON, Sept. 9.—The accounts of rumors of a general uprising of Indians in the eastern portion of Nevada causes much alarm. The first reports are corroborated by runners, who have been out for the past five days and who arrived this morning from the vicinity of Cleveland's ranch. From the best of information gathered all our Indian troubles originated in the following manner. Two Indians showed two white men some rich quartz the white men agreeing to pay for the same but refusing to stand to the contract a quarrel ensued and an Indian called Tobe shot one of the white men. Then two Indians were killed. As the report of the fact circulated from point to point without giving the cause for the same excited the Indians, causing them to believe they were the injured parties which impression resulted in their rendezvousing at prominent places the better to hush into investigation into the cause of the trouble which chusted the above Indian Tobe referred to has been in all repute with his tribe for several years being of a vicious character having caused trouble several times previously. He is looked upon as a wizard having extraordinary powers and is feared by all. Runners are out in all directions from prominent chiefs with instructions to capture him and kill him wherever found, while scouts follow to carry out the decree. Peanup, war chief of the Goshoots has been greatly excited several days having heard that his son was among the slain and together with Black Hawk, his brother exhorted their men to prepare to avenge his death should the report be corroborated and has consequently been incommunicative until this morning when his son made his appearance bringing the report as mentioned above regarding the killing of the Indians. The favorable impression caused by the appearance of the chief's son soon showed itself by their coming to the station and exhuming the facts but expressing regrets that the man had not been killed in place of the others. Great excitement has prevailed for several days among the Indians and whites, each fearing they knew not what.

Scouts and guards jointly furnished have been scouring the country to detect approaching trouble. Arms and ammunition are ordered and every precaution is taken to withstand an attack should strange Indians mate their appearance, there being no trouble apprehended from those of the valley. The Goshoots will return to their ranch to morrow to secure their crop consisting of corn wheat and other vegetables and it is hoped that one of the most sensational excitements of the day will subside, giving the whites opportunity to attend to their legitimate duties and the Indians time to gather their pine nuts.

A Louisville paper says

The Daily Oregonian.

FRIDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 10, 1875.

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH THE BOURBONS?

Some of our Democratic exchanges appear to be terribly exercised because the OREGONIAN has "gone back on Mr. Whitney." The OREGONIAN has done no such thing. Mr. Whitney went back on himself and the OREGONIAN and the Independents, and the OREGONIAN simply accepted the situation and bade Mr. Whitney a most regretful good-bye. We stood by him a good deal longer than he stood by himself or the Independents.

But the thing we want to know is, what has inspired these Bourbon organs with such a zealous interest in the candidacy of Mr. Whitney? They are not his friends. They will vote against him to a man, and they will leave nothing undone that can be done to get Independents to throw off on Whitney and vote for Lane. What then is the secret of their interest in Mr. Whitney? Only make them believe that of the few hundred votes Mr. Whitney will receive, the majority will be cast by persons who would vote for Lane if Whitney were out of the field, and they will all declare at once that Whitney has forfeited all claim to support. When the Independent movement developed such strength as to have some chance of success, the Bourbons went into an adulterous alliance with the Republican politicians and the two parties co-operate together to crush out the Independent party. Then no words were sufficient to express their detestation of the Independents, no epithet too offensive to apply to them. But so soon as the Independents lost, by the folly of the man they nominated, all the prestige of the previous year, and all the power they had for this campaign except the power to assist the Bourbon cause, the whole pack of the unwashed give tongue on the track of any Independent who has independence enough to refuse the vote to which the Democratic politicians would assign him. A vote for Whitney is regarded as a vote for Lane; that's what's the matter with those gentlemen who have so suddenly discovered such an all-absorbing interest in the Independent cause and candidate.

THE EVENING JOURNAL'S NEW DEPARTURE.

The Evening Journal announces that it has concluded to take "a new departure," and then proceeds to define its meaning by saying it is going to advocate the election of Lafayette Lane to congress. We can't see where the new departure comes in. The Journal has been for Lane all the time. True, it has not openly avowed its purpose to aid him, but its course has admitted of no other explanation. Heretofore it has been running on the "anything-to-beat Warren tack," which meant nothing else than anything-to-elect-Lane. We wish the Journal no ill luck, for it is a very courteous paper, but we hope its influence may prove insufficient to secure the election of its candidate. We entertain none but kindly feelings toward Mr. Lane personally, but certainly it cannot be claimed that he is a representative of the sentiments or opinions of the people of Oregon. His democracy is of that fossil kind which never learns or forgets anything, nor ever accepts any political events as a settlement of the issues involved in it. The chances are ten to one that he will make the canvass upon Calhoun's theories of the constitution and government, instead of addressing himself to the questions that now challenge the attention of practical men; and should he be elected, he will think of no other so great service he can render the State he represents, as that of helping to fight over again, in Congress, the battles that greater men than he fought out to the bitter end long ago. Then the attitude of himself and his party toward the common school system, which lies at the very foundation of popular government, render it a matter of no small moment, whether the people of the State shall give the moral effect and prestige of the election to that party at this time. This appears to us to be the paramount issue in the contest.

We do not claim that Henry Warren is a great statesman. We need not claim that in order to be consistent in saying he is quite the peer of Mr. Lane in that respect. We do say he is an honest and incorruptible man, right on all the moral questions of the day, and of respectable ability; and he rests under no cloud of suspicion on the subject that lies near the heart of the intelligent and liberal minded people of Oregon.

THE CALIFORNIA AND OREGON RAILWAY.

The following we clip from the Winnemucca Silver State of September 3d:

A party of civil engineers arrived here yesterday, and, under the direction of S. F. Lauterne, will proceed immediately to make a preliminary survey of the Winnemucca and Oregon railroad route. Teams and camp equipage for the corps are expected to arrive to-day, and the party will proceed at once to take altitudes and look out the most favorable route. We are informed that they intend to start near the depot, and proceed south of Winnemucca mountain, running in a northwesterly direction to the northeast corner of California; thence to Klamath lake, where the road will intersect the California and Oregon railroad, now completed to Shasta, California. The distance from Winnemucca to Klamath lake is about 300 miles, and it will take three or four months to make the preliminary survey, after which the locating survey will be made as soon as possible. This is conclusive evidence that the company mean business, and that a railroad from this point to Oregon will be built at an early day.

We learn further, from other sources, that this surveying party from the Central Pacific railway was joined next day, September 4th, by D. L. Bridges, the First Assistant Engineer of the corps. C. P. Huntington, the Vice President, accompanied the surveying party as far as Winnemucca from San Francisco in the cars, and left there for New York the next day. We understand also that the second surveying party from the Central Pacific railway, twelve in number, is making surveys from Reading northwest to the Klamath lakes, where they expect, in two or three months, to meet the first surveying party from Winnemucca after their labors are completed, and both the parties return to San Francisco before Christmas with their joint surveys and reports. The second surveying corps from Reading is under charge of Mr. Montague, the chief engineer of the Central Pacific, who was in Oregon with Mr. Huntington and General Colton, the directors who made our city a visit a few weeks ago. We have reason to believe that in a few days important particulars will be made public in connection with the Winnemucca road, and a proposition submitted, which, if accepted in Oregon, will cause the Central Pacific directors to commence the construction of the road from Winnemucca to Portland in February next.

The Democratic State Convention of Pennsylvania, now in session at Erie, is having a hard time with the financial question. Up to that point the resolutions reported by their platform committee are, in the main, sensible and manly, excepting, of course, the claptrap and verbal jugglery with which they, in common with all other political converts, made themselves look silly in order to catch votes. But the delivery of the financial plank is protracted and painful. Why don't they dispose of the subject after the Oregon fashion, by resolving that the currency ought to be "equitably adjusted."

We publish this morning the report of the Superintendent of the Penitentiary for quarter ending August 31st. It makes a very good showing, and the Superintendent informs us, in a private note accompanying the report, that the appropriation made by the last Legislature will be sufficient to cover the expenditures and leave a small margin to rebuild the shops, tannery, etc., which were burned down awhile since, and which are rebuilding again as rapidly as possible.

A dispatch says that on the morning of August 28th, a burglar effected an entrance to the bed-room of Wm. Young, managing editor of the New York Sun, and robbed him of $50. The story is too thin. The idea that a metropolitan burglar has no more sabe than to go after an editor for money, won't go down; and then the absurdity of the story is heightened by the statement that the thief actually got some, from that source.

The Salem Statesman has this piece of information:

A report reaches us that H. W. Scott, well known to the editorial fraternity of this state, has taken charge of the editorial columns of the OREGONIAN.

That report did not reach the OREGONIAN office till it came in the Statesman, and like many of the telegrams in the old war times, it "wants confirmation."

We learn that three or four more suits were commenced by creditors of the Bulletin establishment, yesterday, for sums amounting in the aggregate to about $2,000. The claims now in suit amount to something over $8,000.

POOR CHIROGRAPHY—ITS EFFECTS.—Bad penmanship is certainly not very creditable to any one, but, to a reasonable extent, the defect is pardonable among editors. Among the most notable instances where frightful chirography and great ability have gone hand in hand we cite those of Horace Greeley and Rufus Choate. Editors who are guilty of spreading their thoughts in a wretched, straggling hand, very frequently mislead the unlucky type in his frantic efforts to "follow copy," and are likewise made to appear in a ludicrous light. In all such cases the printer has to bear the brunt of editorial blunder, when really the fault lies with the scribbler, when really the fault lies with the quill-driver. Speaking of bad penmanship and its effects, we are reminded of a good joke and its effects, we are reminded of a good joke which is told at the expense of a certain inkslinger who presides over the destinies of a weekly paper issued in a certain town, not more than eight miles distant from Portland, situated on the north side of the lordly Columbia, in Washington Territory. POOR CHIROGRAPHY—ITS EFFECTS.—Bad penmanship is certainly not very creditable to any one, but, to a reasonable extent, the defect is pardonable among editors. Among the most notable instances where frightful chirography and great ability have gone hand in hand we cite those of Horace Greeley and Rufus Choate. Editors who are guilty of penning their thoughts in a wretched, straggling hand, very frequently mislead the unlucky typo in his frantic efforts to "follow copy," and are likewise made to appear in a ludicrous light. In all such cases the printer has to bear the brunt of editorial choler, when really the fault lies with the quill-driver. Speaking of bad penmanship and its effects, we are reminded of a good joke which is told at the expense of a certain inkslinger who presides over the destinies of a weekly paper issued in a certain town not more than eight miles distant from Portland, situated on the north side of the lordly Columbia, in Washington Territory. A few days ago, the editor wrote a paragraph, under the heading of "Good Shooting," which read substantially that a certain gentleman, residing in the vicinity of the Dalles, recently shot fifty-three prairie chickens in a few hours. Never missing a shot. He sent the paragraph in to his compositors to have it set up. By some means the squib fell into the hands of a young lady typo who was employed in the office. The editor, it is stated, is proverbial for perpetrating the most execrable chirography, and the paragraph was penned in the worst possible style. After a long and tedious effort to "follow copy," the poor girl managed to finish the task. When the proof-reader came to look over the galley, judge of his surprise on finding that the paragraph in question ran as follows: "Mr. ——, of The Dalles, shot 53 prairie chickens in a hen house one day last week, and never missed a shot." He didn't discharge the printer, but he corrected the proof like a "little man," and indulged in a hearty laugh at the expense of the writer. That editor will never know how near he came to have a libel suit on his hands until he reads this. There is some talk of getting him to attend a term of writing school.

SOLD—HIS STILL LIVES.—Yesterday afternoon a man arrived at police headquarters with the alarming report that a bloody deed had been done some distance below Albina. He had formed his impressions of a fearful tragedy through having seen a boy with a stray horse attached to buggy in which were a pair of boots, shirt collar, and hat, west. The shirt bore an appearance of blood spots, and this was sufficient for the man thought, to convince any one that some mischief had been done. He hastened to the city and went directly to headquarters, detailing what he had seen to the chief who summoned Capt. Brannan to proceed to the spot at once. That officer obeyed orders promptly, reaching the place of the supposed scene of slaughter in time to find the boy in charge of the horse and buggy and a well known sportsman adjusting his apparel preparatory to returning home with the game captured during his brief tramp in the woods. Captain Brannan took in the situation at once. What the man had seen on the shirt was the blood which had run from some game in the buggy and over the spotless linen. Though the trip was a fruitless one, it had its humorous points which all concerned enjoyed hugely. When Captain A. goes gunning again, he will take precaution to leave nothing behind to create suspicion of foul play. Those who may chance to visit Central Market to-day will find the hero of our story enjoying the joke as much as any one. The M. P. who was detailed to look into the matter, is put out considerably.

CASTLE ROCK.—A correspondent sends us the following from Columbia City under date of the 8th: We have refrained from making any public statement in regard to the coal bed discovered at this place, until we could ascertain the extent and quality of the article. A thorough prospecting proves us now to speak more understandingly. The coal is two miles west of this place, and one mile from the Columbia river, on this side of that stream. The range of mountains crop out for over a mile along the hills, about 250 feet above the level of the river. We have sunk a cut 15 feet, 6 feet wide, and we now have square face on the coal for 12 feet. There is still coal above, so we have not reached the cap rock yet by three feet, which is sand stone for two or three hundred feet above the coal, with sand stone below also, for some distance. The coal proves to be good for fuel, and a fair article for blacksmithing, also for ... We are now making a road, and will in a few days have the coal on the wharf at this place, on trial, for steamboat fuel.

CougAR KILLED.—Monday evening of the present week, a very large cougar paid a visit to the residence of Mr. Farrer, who lives near Damascus, Clackamas county, and attacked a hog. The swine began to utter vigorous squeals, which gave the alarm, and brought to the spot a number of persons. Mr. Farrer, and a man named Welch, armed with proper weapons, commenced active warfare against the ferocious intruder. The animal, on being closely pressed by a dog, sought for safety by taking to a tree. Several shots were discharged at the cougar, one of which took effect in the hip, and so disabled him that he came down to the ground. The cougar was immediately attacked by the dog and men, and, after a most protracted fight, the animal had succumb to the death-dealing bullets. When dead, the men measured the animal, and found it was seven feet and five inches from tip to tip. The fight took place after night, and was conducted by the meager light furnished from several torches.

DEAD BODY FOUND.—Yesterday afternoon, the body of an unknown man was found floating in the river, just below Weidler's mill. It was taken charge of by some persons, and towed to the bank a short distance above the mill. Coroner Wetmore was sent for, but could not be found. The body was that of a man low and stoutly built. He had on black clothes and a heavy pair of boots. On one side of the neck was a large scar. To one wrist was tied a handkerchief, at the other end of which was attached a stone, thus indicating that the person had committed suicide. It is possible that the man has been foully dealt with, and the stone attached to his arm to create the impression that he had made away with himself. From appearances the body has been in the water for some days. An inquest will doubtless be held to-day, when further and more satisfactory particulars will be elicited.

PASSENGER LIST.—The steamer John L. Stephens sailed last evening for San Francisco, carrying hence the following passengers: Mrs. L. Watson, Miss R. Lachman, Miss E. Lawson, Mrs. M. Halsey, Harry Dupsy, John Fisher, Mrs B. Gallagher & servt, N. Thompson, J. Wells, Mrs. Morgan & child; Miss Lottie E. Fisher, Geo. Monroe, Donald McWaughton & wife, J. G. Walker & family; Mrs. E. C. Pray & daughter, J. Kamm & wife, Thomas Bonan, Emil Wolf, Mrs. R. H. Proctor, Mrs. J. H. Fisk & child, Capt. J. C. Ainsworth & wife, J. W. Sprague, Mrs. M. B. Force and 2 daughters, Dr. J. C. Hawthorne, Annie Loryea, Dr. J. H. Hatch & wife, and 12 in the steerage.

MISSED THE TRAIN.—The railroad ferry, on the last trip yesterday afternoon with passengers to connect with the southern train, was delayed sufficient time in the middle of the river to miss the connection, and several persons were consequently compelled to remain in the city until the next train. A few, desirous for Oregon City, managed to catch the J. N. Quick, which happened to start late yesterday. The towline of a passing vessel got entangled in the wheel of the ferry, which caused the delay.

NEW MUSIC RECEIVED.—Mr. Carr, of Gray's music store, has laid on our table the following musical gems, just issued: "Give me Kisses," a ballad, words by W. J. Wetmore, music by Felix Marti; "Keeping Watch," a song, words by E. E. Rexford, music by Felix Marti; "Bonnie Waltz," respectfully dedicated to Messrs. Wood and O'Brien, composed by Miss Mary J. Shawhan, aged nine years; "Wooing in the Lane," a beautiful sentimental song.

ASSESSMENT ROLL.—Yesterday the county assessor, Mr. O. M. Barnard, presented the assessment roll for Multnomah county for 1875, which, upon examination by the county court, was approved, and Mr. G. L. Story, the county clerk, was authorized to make three copies of the same.

ALMOST A FIRE.—A clerk handled a candle carelessly yesterday, while laboring in a cellar, and it accidentally fell from his hand, alighting in a bundle of straw which it ignited. The clerk endeavored to stamp the fire out, but, as the flames increased in volume continually, he finally shouted "fire!" which had the effect of bringing assistance, and the embryo conflagration was extinguished with but little loss.

LAUNCHED.—The W. R. T. Co's steamer Gen. Grover, after having her hull replanked and being generally renovated, was launched from the ways on the east side yesterday morning. She was soon after towed to the foot of Washington street. A new wheel is being built, among other improvements. In a few weeks the Grover will be able to report for active duty, and will be in very excellent condition.

PEACH CROP.—Advices from Walla Walla, says the evening cotemporary, the greatest peach-growing district for its extent, on the Pacific coast, state that the peach crop is so great a failure this year that peaches are a luxury there. They are selling as high at that place as in this city.

A TRAMP FOR LIFE

HOW AN OLD MOUNTAINEER WALKED NINE DAYS IN THE SNOW

A correspondent says The recent walk of Professor Brooks calls to my mind a case in account of which was never published on the Atlantic coast, of a real feat of walking endurance, for life, by a Pacific coast miner and no swindler or brute is connected with this case During the winter of 1864 a party headed by Bacon, the Elk county expressman started from Lewiston, Nez Perces county Indian Territory for Elk City, a spur of the Rocky Mountains whose altitude is not less than 12,000 feet, through dense timber

Leaving Silvers ood's mountain house, no stopping-place existed until 28 miles were made over mountains to Newsome Creek In the party of some seven or eight, was one Richard Wildan a Norwegian, well known to the writer of this article He had the ill-luck to break a snow shoe, and was advised to take it back to Silverwood's as the party could not stop in the snow Believing he could go back by the plainly marked trail in the snow, and blazes on the trees for a guide, the others pushed on and safely arrived at Elk City and no fears were expressed regarding the fate of Wildan till seven days later a new party crossed the mountain, and then it was ascertained Wildan had not gone back

Immediately a party was mustered and on snow shoes started out to find the lost man His trail was at last found and followed by the hardy pioneers in search of him On the ninth day he was found, still on foot, walking in a circle on the hard-beaten trail of his own making, his feet badly frozen, yet enclosed in the sleeves of his coat which he had wrapped about them

The thermometer showed nine degrees below zero, a great part of the time he was struggling on his feet for life The party finding him saw that he was thoroughly crazy On accosting him and asking if he was not hungry, he at once replied, No He was fed on pork and beans at a house not far back Not a trace could be found where he had sat down, not a sign of where he could have taken a rest—in fact, with the cold never less than four degrees below zero, he never had wakened had he rested He was brought to Newsome Creek station on the ninth night of this wild, cold unfed, cheerless walk in deep snow—tenderly cared for by Wells & Baird, keepers of the Newsome Creek house and eventually recovered so as to do a good season's work with a pick and shovel, in a mining camp called Ebon Water station, sixteen miles below the Elk City camp Mr Wildan was a man of about 108 pounds weight, short and stout

That this article is true in every respect is easily proven Loyal P Brown, Deputy United States Tax Collector, now of Mount Idaho, of Mr Charles Frush, a clerk now in the Land Office of the Interior Department, can vouch for the general truthfulness of this slight sketch. Here is a case where seven days of real walking took place without any refreshment or selection of apparel—without cheer of any kind, and all for life Let fools prance on boards, stages, etc, Dick Wildan's feat will overshadow anything they ever can do I hope some representative man from Idaho will see this article and give the particulars more fully than is here done, although this is a simple account in all truth given Wildan, and those who found him and cared for him, should live in history, and I hope he is still on his feet, as strong as when found

Though there is some closeness in the market the present outlook finalcially speaking is not at all discouraging and, with the settlement of the temporary excitement caused by recent events on the coast and the resumption of business in the regular channels there appears to be no good reason to believe that the supplies of capital to carry on the legitimate business on this coast will not be ample in fact the probabilities are now in favor of a surplus amount of money on the Pacific coast within the next two months The new bank to be opened within that time by Flood & O Brien in San Francisco, and the re establishment of the Bank of California, together with the large returns from the paying mines and for the earlier shipments of wheat will also conspire to place a very large surplus of money in the market. Hence there is little reason to fear that the surplus products of the coast will not be promptly moved on account of a lack of the capital

The plan upon which the business of the Bank of California is to be settled up is one which seems to commend itself to good judgment, and will likely prove most satisfactory to creditors of the institution than any other that could have been devised Its assets are of every description, are some $11 000 000 nominal assets $20 000 000 assets unquestionably available $13,000 000 excess of reliable assets over liabilities, $2 000 000 doubtful assets $7,000 000 To throw the institution into the bankruptcy courts all of its assets would be tied up for an indefinite period, probably for years and even on the most favorable showing above made it is doubtful if the creditors would realize over fifty cents on the dollar To continue the business, with an indemnity extended to the bank by its creditors and a like spirit manifested by the directors to its debtors, the $13 000 000 of assets could no doubt be collected in time to meet the $11 000 000 of liabilities. In this condition of affairs a syndicate is formed to assume the management of the bank's affairs collect the assets and pay the debts These gentlemen are all men of great wealth who give their personal guarantees to the extent of their individual subscriptions that the debts of the bank shall be paid, in full They make arrangements with the heavier creditors for their payment at certain stated periods agreed upon while the smaller depositors and creditors are paid on the opening of the bank. Should the collection of moneys due the bank be delayed or interrupted then the syndicate is assessed from time to time to make up the required amounts

General Market Review.

Although transactions are not as brisk in trade circles as they would have been but for the late monetary collapse, there is nevertheless a very reasonable amount of business doing in the way of the fall trade Importations of fall stocks have been quite heavy for two or three weeks past and merchants here are still adding to their supplies so that ample opportunities are afforded buyers to make their selections As was the case last spring and summer so now dealers in agricultural implements are preparing for a large business in seasonable goods Oregon farmers are noted for keeping pace with the age in the employment of the best and latest improvements in farming machinery Bags and bagging are in very large supply and prices 20 per cent. below last year's figures.

Groceries as a rule are in moderate request and prices are firmly maintained in most qualities of canned goods coffees, sugars and syrups while fancy goods in the way of fruits nuts etc are in large supply and prices favor buyers. Our domestic salmon is still ruling low in the markets abroad but improves a little on the sales of last year Dry salt which is in full supply in the market the demand is reported as only moderate and sales in the aggregate do not foot up largely

In dry goods the fall and winter stocks are arriving freely and several prominent houses report fair sales Steadiness characterizes the market and a slight advance is noted in some lines Our home made woolen goods are meeting with an encouraging demand and are being more and more adopted to the wants of the trade in style finish and price

Domestic produce of which quotations of jobbing prices are given below shows an increasing activity in the movement in some articles but in the leading staples of wheat flour oats and wool no heavy transactions are reported several exporters of breadstuffs being out of the market at anything above our lowest quotations. Telegrams from Liverpool to day note a decline of about 3d per cental with fine weather prevailing in the grain producing sections of England Flour in our home market is held at the former quotations but under them stocks are accumulating The shipments during the week embrace about 9 000 sacks to San Francisco and 4 000 sacks to northern points. Orders are not in full receipt and shipments light the supply only filling the demand for the home trade The market is firm Bacon is in steady demand and exports are increasing large quantities will be put up in our State the coming season Fresh shipments are in fair supply of good quality at our quotations. Dairy products show but little change choice table butter being in especial request at the highest rates Eggs are dull poultry plentiful with a downward tendency Hides and furs are ready sale and in decreased receipts Wool shows but little activity, and shipments are falling off The opening prices for the fall clip will probably be lower than was anticipated

Ayer's Ague Cure,

FOR THE SPEEDY RELIEF OF

Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c, and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

Has been widely used during the last few years in the treatment of these distressing diseases and with such unerring success that it has gained the reputation of being infallible. Even the worst chills once broken by it do not return and the disease is conquered again This has made it an accepted remedy and trusted specific for the fever and ague of the West and the chills and fever of the South

Ayers Ague Cure eradicates the noxious poison from the system and leaves the patient as well as before the attack Unsurpassed as the Ague Cure for it counteracts and expels the malarious infection, it will expel the poison and prevent them from attack Travelers and temporary residents in Fever and Ague localities are thus enabled to defy the disease The General Debility which is so apt to ensue from continued exposure to Malaria and Miasm has no speedier remedy for Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy
